

Function

The skeleton performs a number of functions:

- Provides a frame for the attachment of body tissues and muscles
- Supports the body off the ground
- Protects the main organs of the body
- Mobility - it permits movement and locomotion
- A site for the formation of red blood cells
- A store for calcium phosphate